

Catherine (Kitty) Petty is an education specialist working in the neurology department at Boston's Children's Hospital primarily in the Neuro-immunology Clinic with Dr. Mark Gorman and many of our OMAS patients for the past 15 years. She also is a case coordinator in the Learning Disabilities Program at Boston Children's Hospital for the past 20 years. Her background is as an elementary teacher, a certified special education teacher, and an education specialist for major Fortune 500 companies. In addition, she is a Clinical Licensed Mental Health provider. Catherine has worked extensively with children with special needs to help make sure that they are receiving the best supports at school. Her primary goal is to help parents better understand their rights and how to positively work with a school district.
